Welcome
Edinburgh Art Festival moves into its second decade with a programme featuring work by over 100 artists from Scotland, the UK and further afield in more than 30 venues across the city. In a year of extraordinary events and exhibitions, we are excited to celebrate 25 years of contemporary art in Scotland with exhibitions and commissions as part of Generation; consider the future of our nation in works responding to and reflecting on Scottish independence and the Commonwealth, and commemorate the centenary of the First World War.

With so much to see across the breadth of Edinburgh, a good map is essential for finding your way from one exhibition, public commission or event to the next. We’re delighted to bring you our latest commissioned map, created by illustrator David Galletly: we hope you enjoy using it to explore the city and our programme.

The festival map is accompanied by a guide giving detailed information on all of the exhibitions in our programme, and by weekly printed events listings during the festival. They’re freely available at all our venues, our Kiosk on George Street and as a download from our website. The majority of exhibitions and events in the festival are free, but the map and the guide give full details of ticket prices in cases where they apply.
